

REQUEST TO PUBLISH MATERIALS (NON-PRINT FORMAT)

On behalf of the institution named below, I, the undersigned, request permission to broadcast the items listed below:

in the following production:

Producer(s)/responsible party: _____

Production company/contact: _____

Title of the Production: _____

Medium/format: _____

Projected release date: _____

It is understood that The Johns Hopkins University does not claim reproduction rights to the materials in its collections. The organization requesting use of materials in University collections agrees to assume all responsibility for such use and hereby agrees to indemnify, defend, and hold harmless The Johns Hopkins University, its trustees, officers, employees, and agents from any and all liability, loss or damage they may suffer as a result of claims, demands, costs or judgments (including reasonable attorney fees and court costs) against them arising out of the organization's use of the requested materials.

I have read and agreed to the Special Collections Image Publication Use Policy.

Signature: _____ Date: _____

Name and Title of authorized Representative: _____

Phone, Fax and E-mail of Authorized Representative: _____

Name and Address of Institution: _____

If permission is granted, a letter of permission or signed Permission to Publish Materials form will be returned.

(Staff use only)

Use fee: _____ Date received: _____ Date permission mailed: _____

Staff initials: _____

PUBLICATION PERMISSION

1. The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, U.S. Code) governs the making of reproductions of copyrighted material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the reproduction is not to be “used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research.” If a researcher makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of “fair use,” that researcher may be liable for copyright infringement.
2. We define publication as any visual representation or reproduction of materials from our holdings. Instances of publication may include, but are not limited to, printed materials, motion picture films or videos, websites, or display in a commercial establishment.
3. Permission to publish materials must be requested in writing, on the appropriate form provided by this department. The application should specify what the materials are and where they will be published. Please address letters of request to the Rare Book Librarian, Curator of Manuscripts, or Archivist, as appropriate.
4. Our staff cannot sign agreement or permission forms from the publisher or user of our materials. Permission to publish, if granted, must be based solely on the terms specified in this form, or in other documents supplied by this department.
5. The Johns Hopkins University does not claim reproduction rights to the materials in its collections, and it is expressly agreed that the researcher will obtain any necessary permission to publish from copyright owners and others.
6. The Library does not grant exclusive publication rights, but reserves the right to make its collections available for use and publication by anyone who makes an application.
7. No charge is made for scholarly publication of materials, but a fee for commercial publication, which varies according to the nature and extent of use, is required. The fee schedule is available upon request.
8. When permission is granted, appropriate credit for the material used must be given as stated in the letter of permission.